

Campus Club Milledgeville forms Hip-Hop Fusion Band called Hi-Impact:

Hi-Impact creates an avenue for talented middle school students to become the best and brightest in their chosen fields. Selected middle school students will have to dedicate themselves to building their artistic talents and in doing so build their self-confidence and strengthen their community. Fusing Hip-Hop with multiple genres of contemporary music, students learn key lessons in harmony, theory, ear training, and instrumental performance. The staff will draw from music the children already know and like, to help them understand the theory of music that connects jazz and traditional classical.

Hi-Impact will develop numerous art-disciplines including visual art (multi-media), performance art (vocals, instrumentation), and literary art (poetry, songwriting). This will use fine-art as the “engagement-point” for enrichment that prepare middle and high school students for work and life in the 21st century global economy, through technology. The use of visual art and music, through technology increases academic proficiency and develops multi-modal skills that will inspire the next generation of innovators and global citizens. CCM is committed to bridging the technological divide and provides families from low socioeconomic backgrounds the opportunity to access the latest technology.

Staff will choose performance material that is family-friendly that challenges students in the areas of harmony, theory, ear training, and instrumental/vocal performance, by fusing Hip-Hop with multiple genres of contemporary music. Songs from famed artists such as Mary J. Blige, Earth Wind & Fire, and Toby Mac will allow students to artistically grow using music they like. Retro-Soul, Gospel and Poetry allows every student freedom to grow in their performance discipline.
